Tribute to the Manchester Martyrs. The twenty-second anniversary of the death of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, | mings on the "Life and Public Services of Larkin and O'Brien, was commemorated | Horace Greeley," will be given at Plymouth last evening at the hall of the Irish-American Club, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Maurice Donnelly made an address, in which he feelingly referred to the fate of these martyrs, and that there never was a time in the history of Irish persecutions when that race enlisted more sympathy than now. He spoke of the conduct of the London Times, charging home upon it the false and mali-cious statements it had made against the leaders of the Irish race, and the greatest Irish statesman that ever lived. The speaker predicted that the expatriated sons of the Gael would never forsake the cause in which they are enlisted until the last vestige of English domination is forever taken from Irish shores and an Irish republic supplants that remnant of feudalism, Dublin Castle. P. J. Kelleher recited "Morning on the Irish Coast," and was heartily applauded, after which came brief speeches by Daniel Foley, Cornelius Kelly, M. K. Stack, William Curry, M. J. Burns, and M. Breslin. The meeting was then closed with songs and recitations.

The Train-Dispatcher Responsible. Coroner Rendigs, of Cincinnati, yesterday, in an inquest on the bodies of two persons killed at Trautman's Station, just outside the western limits of that city in a collision of trains on the Big Four railway, on Oct. 12, rendered his verdict. It was to the effect that Train-dispatcher Guy Jeffreys, of this city, had given both trains the right of way, and was therefore responsible for the accident that caused the death of the two persons.

IN HONOR OF COLONEL SHAW.

His Friends of Different Organizations Extend to Him Their Hearty Good Will.

Castle Hall, K. of P., in the Talbott Block, was packed last evening with the friends of Col. A. D. Shaw, who was recently appointed to a responsible position in the office of the Third Auditor of the Treasury at Washington. The gathering was informal, and was arranged for the purpose of expressing the gratification of a large portion of the voters of the State over Colonel Shaw's appointment, and to furnish an opportunity desired by many to extend their congratulations and good wishes to him personally before his departure. The meeting was organized by the selection of J. Q. Hicks as president: L. B. Case, M. B. Campbell and Fred Ward as vice-presidents, and H. B. Snyder as secretary. Mr. Ward escorted the guest of the evening, with a guard of honor from the Uniform Rank K. of P., into the hall, where he was warmly welcomed by President Hicks. The latter eulogized Colonel Shaw as a man of honor, courage, and industry, who had served his country gallantly in the field, and who had endeared himself to the railroad men of this and other communities throughout the this and other communities throughout the State by his many excellent qualities of head and heart. "For a quarter of a cen-tury," said the speaker, "his name has been a household word in this city, and a railroad man that did not know Gus Shaw either personally or by name was at once set down as new arrival."

A duet, "Is a Man a Whit the Better," was sung very acceptably by Theo. List and W. C. Woods, and ex-Lieutenant-governor Thomas Hanna then spoke briefly, but eloquently, of the character of the assembly, and the man in whose honor it was gathered. Such a meeting, he said, could not be secured to express gratification over an appointment gained through mere political influence. It was because there was special fitness in the selection, and the comspecial fitness in the selection, and the community feels prouder of the President and country because it was made. Following Governor Hanna's address, a male quartet sang "The Boatman" with good effect, and Gen. J. R. Carnahan made a very happy address, in which he spoke of the value of honest friends, and revived the recollections of army life, where Colonel Shaw earned an enviable reputation, and his long and useful residence in this city, where his manly worth had gained him troops of friends. He congratulated him over the fact that he would probably reside for the next four years in the birth-place of the Knights of Pythias, and where the parent lodge was still in existence, and said that a welcome as warm as the greet-ing now extended would be ready from his old friends of the Grand Army, the Knights of Pythias and the railroad men when his term there was ended. "No Hoosier ever left Indiana to stay," said the General "We bid you God-speed, instead of good-

A letter from Commander Travis, of the G. A. R., was read, expressing his regret at not being able to be present, and tendering his best wishes, and after that there were several appropriate selections rendered by the Walker Orchestra. Colonel Shaw got a hearty reception when he rose to respond, and seemed to be moved deeply by the affec-tion manifested for him. "I will treasure the kind words that have been spoken of me," he said, "though I cannot answer them as appropriately as I could wish."
Then he went on to speak of the pleasant hours he had spent in the Castle Hall, where the meeting was assembled, and in the meeting rooms of the Grand Army posts that were so fully represented. He referred at some length to his friendship for his railroad associates, the brakemen and yardmen, whose hazardous service to the public was rarely appreciated. "I want to be remembered as a comrade in deed and in truth," he said, "and if any of my old asso-ciates are thrown in my vicinity at any time or place I want them to know that my latch-string hangs for them on the outside."
In conclusion, he paid a graceful tribute to the ladies present, and at the close of the meeting shook hands with all present.

There were other appropriate addresses and an abundance of music. Mr. Hugo, of the Fireman's Brotherhood, and Thad F. Rollins both made excellent speeches; Mrs. Lily Snyder, W. C. Woods and others sang very creditably, and the assembly ended with further good wishes and farewells to Colonel Shaw, who leaves for his new field of labor to-day.

John McCue Rearrested.

John McCue was arrested last night on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. McCue is the man who, more than two years ago, while serving a sentence of seventy-three days in the work-house for assault and battery, was taken to the grand jury-room as a witness in another case. He was placed in a room pending examination, and during the absence of the guard made his escape. His whereabouts were not known until yesterday. McCue was formerly a potato peddler, and was well known to the public. At the time he made his escape he had served twenty days of his

TRIED TO PROLONG HIS JOB.

A New York Submarine Expert Indicted for Destroying a Water-Works Tunnel.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 23 .- Several months ago John O'Brien, of No. 38 Morton street. New York city, came here with a picked gang of men to work on the new waterworks tunnel. The tunnel extends into and under the lake for a mile from shore. It has been a source of much trouble to the contractor and the city because of quicksand which has threatened that part of it which has been finished, as well as the lives of the men employed upon its construction. O'Brien is an expert in the use of compressed air, and he was brought here to combat the quicksand. He did what he was hired to do; the quicksand, eighty feet under Lake Erie, and seven hundred feet from shore was successfully passed and the compressed air was let out of the tunnel. One afternoon there was great excitement in the tunnel. Bricks tumbled out its side and quicksand and water came pouring in in an unbroken stream. The workmen fied for their lives and escaped death in a most remarkable manner. An investigation proved that the brick wall of the tunnel had been cut purposely, and O'Brien was suspected of having done it. The contractor and city officials declared that O'Brien had cut the wall in order to prolong his engagement at a fancy salary. The matter was laid before the grand jury, where, it is said, one of O'Brien's picked men turned State's evidence, and the result was an indictment against the New York diver. He was arrested to-night and locked up in the county jail. He has worked in all the important submarine tunnels in the country and came here highly recommended.

Killed by a "Live" Wire.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 23.—Timothy McCarthy, an electric-light line man, fouled a live wire here this afternoon and was instantly killed. His body hung on the wires, and had to be taken down by means of a ladder. He was thirty years old and unmarried.

Rumor About a St. Louis Man Denied. Sr. Louis, Mo., Nov. 22.—James A. Smith, sr., president of the James A. Smith & Son's Ice and Fuel Company, has not been seen since the second day after that firm was attached. Thursday of last week, and it is believed that he has probably joined the Canada colony with $60,000 of other people's money. He mortgaged the plant some time ago to Charles P. Chouteau, and as since let the stock run down till the assets are only $7,000, while the liabilities footed up $150,000. It now leaks out that for weeks prior to the failure, instead of depositing checks of the firm in the Franklin Bank, as had been his custom, he cashed them and "salted" the money. The sheriff burst open his box at the safe deposit vault yesterday, and found nothing.

This evening Mr. Fisse, attorney for Mr. Smith, said that gentleman had not left the city, that there is no reason why he should abscoud, that he is at his home in South St. Louis, and that the reports about his mis-appropriating the funds or assets of the company are false.

MISS EMELINE HOLMAN'S TROUBLES.

Sued for $30,000 by Mrs. Kendall for Alienating a Husband's Affections.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 23,-Mrs. Almena D. Kendall has brought suit against Emeline R. Holman. Mrs. Kendall is the wife of W. R. Kendall, widely known as a horseman, and sues Miss Holman for alienating her husband's affections.

Miss Holman, who is very wealthy, will be remembered as figuring in another interesting case over a year and a half ago, when her brother, Luther Holman, plotted to take her life. The plot was a remarkable one and was discovered in Boston, from which place Luther wanted to start and commit the murder himself in this city, his purpose being to get hold of his sister's money. There is nothing of this sort in the present case, and Miss Holman's life is not in danger, although she may lose some of

The suit against her is for $30,000 damages. The curious thing about the case at present is the complication into which the two women have got the banks. A trustee process was served upon the four savings banks of the city, in which Miss Holman has deposits, by Mrs. Kendall's counsel, and the attachment also covered her real estate. Last evening Miss Holman, it is said, thinking it best to settle the case without publicity, gave her note for $10,000, or thereabouts, to Mrs. Kendall's counsel, and also gave orders to have her savings-banks deposits transferred to their account in settlement of the suit.

Afterward she repented, countermanded her orders, and now lawsuits are flying all

Suicide of an Episcopal Rector. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Nov. 23.-At noon to-day the body of Rev. Martin F. Horensen, an Episcopal clergyman, was found in a wood-shed in the rear of his premises, with a deep gash in the left side of the neck and with another on the left wrist, from which he had bled to death. It was a case of deliberate suicide, as shown by the surroundings. He had taken a bed-comforter from the house, spread it upon the floor of the wood-shed, removed his over and under coats, and rolled them up so as to make a pillow for his head on the comforter, removed his collar and cutis, then sat down upon the improvised couch and inflicted the wounds which resulted in death. It is supposed that he committed the act on Friday afternoon, as he had not been seen from 3 P. M. on that day until his body was discovered this noon. Temporary insanity is the only reason that can be assigned. Mr. Horensen was sixty-four years of age, and was rector of an Episcopal Church at Atlantic, Ia., but resided in this Ruined by a Wicked Partner. CHICAGO, Nov. 23,-Charles H. Kingman's answer and cross-bill, filed in the Superior Court this morning, to Charles C. Collins's bill for a receiver for the well-known firm of Gray, Kingman & Collins, tells an interesting story, according to Mr. Kingman, of how a speculating partner virtually wrecked a solid business house. The bill says that on Nov. 1, 1887, the firm had assets of $650,000, when Charles C. Collins assumed control of it, and with a clear surplus of $130,000. The bill claims that Collins did not deal openly with the com-plainant; that he did not understand the business, and bought unwisely; that he speculated on the Board of Trade, and took the funds of the concern to pay his private debts, all of which wrecked the credit of the firm. The complainant prays for a receiver and an accounting. Threw Hinself Under the Wheels. East Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 23.—About 6 this morning D. D. Burdick, a well-known citizen, aged about fifty years, who had been ill and insame for some time, arose from bed, where he had been watched by a hired attendant, and rushed down to the Michigan Central track at the Haydenstreet depot, where he threw himself before a car which a switch engine was moving along the track in the yard. He was instantly killed, the wheels cutting off his head and one foot. Aged Man Burned to Death.

LAWLER, Ia., Nov. 23.-Michael Clary, an aged citizen, arose early yesterday norning and went to the barn to milk his cows. The old gentleman used a lighted caudle instead of a lantern, and in some manner the barn took fire and burned the hay, the cows and Mr. Clary, to a crisp. His body was found by the family among the debris. the head, arms and feet being burned off and leaving nothing but the trunk in a recognizable condition.

Turned on the Gas While Asleep. WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 .- Frank T. Barry, fifteen years old, son of the late Henry W Barry, of Mississippi, was found dead in his bed yesterday by his mother. He had rigged a string from his bed to the gas bracket so that he might study while in bed and turn out the gas without leaving his bed when he became sleepy. In his sleep, he had involuntarily turned on the gas, which, during the night, filled the room and asphyxiated him.

Resolutions of Respect to the Late Martin At a meeting of the Irish-American Club last night the following resolutions of condolence were unanimously adopted: Whereas, The Almighty, in His infinite wisdom and greatness, has been pleased to call from our midst Brother Martin Breen, who for years was treasurer of our club. At all times faithful to the trust reposed in him, revered and respected by all, the very mention of his name was but to have absolute confidence in the man. We would like to interpose the wish that the just Savior, who judges all, would be pleased to grant him a longer period, in order that he may see consummated the greatest wish of his life, namely, an independent Irish Parliament in College Green. An honored citizen, a devout Catholic, a loving husband, an ardent Irish patriot, highly respected by a large circle of acquaintances, we deeply de-plore the loss of such a dear friend and respected
